

Hybrid Training March 6, 2024 EET 9.00 – 16.00

Food Safety System Certification Principles

(based on FSSC 22000 VERSION 6 standard's requirements)

TRAINING OBJECTIVES

- Explain the basic issues involved in choosing a certification scheme and the basic requirements for a food production or distribution business, based on current issues and business specificities.
- During the course, we will trace the points of the FSSC 22000 standard v6 requirements and discuss how this is implemented in real life, what complications can arise and how a company can make it easier for itself to maintain seemingly voluminous documents.
- Evaluation of ISO 22000, ISO/TS 22002-1 and FSSC 22000 standards's application to achieve and maintain certification.

This training is build to strengthen competence and awerness of all participants who work e.g., with quality related tasks, both experienced and less experienced. This training will give you an overview of the actors involved in the food chain, the standards available and the common certification process.
